Regular Monthly Meeting of the Members of the Union.

BUTTE, Feb. 3.—The ladies of the W. C. T. U. met for their monthly programme meeting this afternoon. A Bible reading on prayer was led by the president, Mrs. S. A. Stout. Mrs. Stout spoke logically and feelingly on the subject of the afternoon, taking as her points: the importance of prayer, kinds of prayer, conditions of acceptable prayer.

The union disclaimed all intention of proffering financial aid to the various cases of need which fall under their observation, their work being more particularly that of the letter of the law governing the compensation of the board, and which reads: "The members of the board appointed under this act, who are not officers thereof, shall be entitled to a compensation of $5 per day for actual attendance for their services, and of the appropriation hereinafter named."

At the last previous meeting of the board it was resolved that the law really contemplated that the members should be paid for the time consumed in going and coming as well as for the time actually in attendance.

Mr. Lovell today thought the law did not contemplate that members of the board should be out of pocket every time they attended a meeting. Judge DeWolfe took the same view of the law and said the different construction put upon it made a difference of two days to some of the members.

Mr. Collins, however, argued that the law meant just what it said and while it meant hardship on most of the members he was in favor of accepting pay only for the time actually in attendance at a meeting. Secretary Ramsey quoted the attorney general as saying that the board was allowed under his construction of the law, for the time taken in going and coming from a meeting, and the board finally took that view of it with a vote of only two against it.

Mr. Collins, member of the auditing committee, made an objection to the improper manner in which bills were presented and allowed, there being no vouchers for many of them. He said the great trouble of the future would be one of expense, and he thought all money matters should be handled in the future in a more businesslike manner. Mr. Collins thought the board was too large and too much of a debating club to handle the business properly, and he was in favor of placing the whole responsibility on the executive commissioner.

Mr. Bickford replied that he was willing to assume it, but thought that already his responsibility was greater than the power granted him. The expense of his department has been kept as low as it is possible to keep it and do the work that is expected of him. In regard to the duties and responsibilities of the commissioner, Judge DeWolfe quoted from the law, and added that the success or failure of the exhibit at Chicago depends entirely upon the commissioner. His powers and scope of duty are broad and as liberal as the law can make them. DeWolfe thought that without any further action Mr. Bickford is already the actual head of the state board and responsible for not only the expenditures, but everything else. The board, however, decided that in the future the bills presented to the board must be accompanied by vouchers, and endorsed by the member contracting it.

Mr. Collins made a short, but earnest speech on the necessity of less talk and more work and enthusiasm, and was endorsed by Mr. Bickford, who said that if the board or any member of it could give him suggestions or instructions, he would be glad to hear and act upon them. As far as his department was concerned the work of preparing for the great exposition is being pushed as rapidly and economically as possible. Judge Bickford moved that the secretary be instructed to have made, six three-column newspaper cuts of the Montana state building for the use of

ON THE WAY TO SUCCESS

What Was Done by the Montana World's Fair Board Yesterday.

ARRANGING FOR EXHIBITS

How It Is Proposed to Advertise the State—The Question of Expense Discussed.

BUTTE, Feb. 3.—The board of world's fair managers met again this morning, there being a number of bills to audit, the morning session was given up to the auditing committee and the board took a recess until 3 o'clock, at which time the committee reported on the bills allowed, which report was approved.

Judge DeWolfe asked that some action be taken in regard to a room for the storage of exhibits for this county. Mr. Bickford suggested that the present room be retained for one month at $5, and by that time a room could probably be secured gratis. Professor Traphagen has now a large amount of specimens that should be taken care of, and be taken into the possession of the board as soon as possible. These specimens should be stored somewhere where they could be seen.

The county commissioners have interested themselves and it is possible that within a short time a room will be furnished by them or the citizens. In accordance with Mr. Bickford's suggestion the president of the board was instructed to rent the room in the McNamara block for one month.

Judge Bickford made a timely speech on the matter of stirring up interest in the gathering of exhibits and while he advocated economy he did not believe the desired object could be obtained by means and niggardly conduct of the business. He said that Colorado is making every effort to get up a magnificent display and that if Montana desires to compete with Colorado the board and every member of it must make an exertion. Mr. Bickford's remarks were well received and were followed by others on the same line.

Mr. Hersfield stated that the work of the secretary had increased so much recently that it was necessary to employ a permanent stenographer, and he moved that Miss Sadie Hogan be employed permanently at a salary of $50 a month, which was done.

Sutherland of Meagher county said that he had been promised a specimen of galena ore from one of the large mines in his county, weighing about 4,000 pounds. It is a magnificent specimen and the mine owners want the commissioner to take care of it and get it up out of the mine. As no one had seen the specimen, and the executive commission was not sure that it was wanted owing to its great size, action in regard to it was postponed until the next meeting, and the commissioner was instructed to examine it in the meantime.

Secretary Ramsey suggested that all exhibits collected this spring be shipped to Helena for the purpose of display during the conventions to be held in that city this coming summer.

Mr. Sutherland next asked that about 50,000 pamphlets be published giving a description of each and every Montana article on exhibition at the fair and giving a detailed account of each, together with the name of the mine and other sources, and the name and address of the owner.

The suggestion met with the approval of the board, but the matter was referred to the committee on statistics to report at the next meeting.

Commissioner Bickford further suggested that each contributor to the state exhibit be asked whether he desired to have the specimens returned. If not, the exhibits should be retained and used for the purpose of laying the foundation of a state collection.

The auditing committee reported on the allowance for members of the board in attendance at the meeting. Two statements were submitted on making the per diem allowance for the time consumed in coming and going and the time of the meeting. The other statement was in accordance with the letter of the law governing the compensation of the board, and which reads: "The members of the board appointed under this act, who are not officers thereof, shall be entitled to a compensation of $5 per day for actual attendance for their services, and of the appropriation hereinafter named."

At the last previous meeting of the board it was resolved that the law really contemplated that the members should be paid for the time consumed in going and coming as well as for the time actually in attendance.

Mr. Collins, member of the auditing committee, made an objection to the improper manner in which bills were presented and allowed, there being no vouchers for many of them. He said the great trouble of the future would be one of expense, and he thought all money matters should be handled in the future in a more businesslike manner. Mr. Collins thought the board was too large and too much of a debating club to handle the business properly, and he was in favor of placing the whole responsibility on the executive commissioner.

Mr. Bickford replied that he was willing to assume it, but thought that already his responsibility was greater than the power granted him. The expense of his department has been kept as low as it is possible to keep it and do the work that is expected of him. In regard to the duties and responsibilities of the commissioner, Judge DeWolfe quoted from the law, and added that the success or failure of the exhibit at Chicago depends entirely upon the commissioner. His powers and scope of duty are broad and as liberal as the law can make them. DeWolfe thought that without any further action Mr. Bickford is already the actual head of the state board and responsible for not only the expenditures, but everything else. The board, however, decided that in the future the bills presented to the board must be accompanied by vouchers, and endorsed by the member contracting it.

Mr. Collins made a short, but earnest speech on the necessity of less talk and more work and enthusiasm, and was endorsed by Mr. Bickford, who said that if the board or any member of it could give him suggestions or instructions, he would be glad to hear and act upon them. As far as his department was concerned the work of preparing for the great exposition is being pushed as rapidly and economically as possible. Judge Bickford moved that the secretary be instructed to have made, six three-column newspaper cuts of the Montana state building for the use of the board, and the state papers, the price of the cuts to be limited to $30.

"I object," came from Mr. Hersfield, who had not made a kick for three or four minutes. "I object to such a misuse of the public money."

Mr. Hersfield then read from the laws of the state and could not find anything about newspaper cuts in it. He then moved that Mr. Bickford's resolution be laid on the table. A vote was taken on Mr. Hersfield's motion and it received two votes, but he called for a division and Mr. Hersfield and Judge DeWolfe stood alone. Judge Bickford's resolution was then adopted.

Mr. Collins then asked that the president and secretary join in a petition to all the railroads, asking them for half rates for members of the board attending future meetings. This motion was unanimously agreed upon, Mr. Hersfield even forgetting to enter an objection. The subject of freight rates was then taken up, and Judge Bickford stated that he had already written to all the railroads in the state on the subject, but had received only one reply and that was from the Northern Pacific. That road offered to give half rates on all freight on exhibits. The other roads have not yet made any concessions.

Mr. Collins thought some effort should be made to curtail expenses and he thought a good way to do it in one respect was to get reduced freight rates from the railroads.

This brought out a remark from Mr. Hersfield about the $39 blown in for newspaper pictures.

The president and secretary were instructed to write to the railroads on the subject in the name of the state board, and Mr. Hersfield saw another opportunity to say something about those pictures and that $39.

This included all the business before the board and Mr. Collins moved that the next meeting of the board be held at Great Falls. The motion was seconded and unanimously carried.

The meeting adjourned to meet at Great Falls on the first Monday in May, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The members of the board will return to their homes to-morrow. Each one was well satisfied with the work accomplished at this session and said that the real work toward the success of the Montana exhibit at the fair must now be commenced. The only complaint any one could find, was with the size of the board, and each member said the other did too much useless talking. The work of the committees has made satisfactory progress, and the executive commissioner and his assistants and the secretary were especially commended for their efforts in the past.

CITY FINANCES.

It Is Expensive to Maintain the Public Buildings of the City.

BUTTE, Feb. 3.—The finance committee of the city council has about come to the conclusion that it would be cheaper to rent city offices than to own property. The repairs and extras on the new city hall are averaging about $25 each month, during January there is a bill of $120.43 for repairs and a bill of $63.60 for plumbing. In addition a bill was presented for plumbing on the old city hall which amounts to more than $100. The finance committee at its meeting this afternoon referred this bill to the public buildings committee for their approval.

The committee approved a large number of bills this afternoon, but it is not likely that they will be paid until a little more money gets into the city treasury, that is the case at present. The city employed it be paid first and then if there is anything left the other bills will be paid.

The police court statement for January shows $1,000.45 taken in in police court fines and costs, which is an average month's work. The fines collected from dissolute women during January amounted to $900. A bill for a hack used by the police in searching the diggings for prisoners escaped from the county jail was referred to the county commissioners. A bill of $104.10 for the physician's and nurse's bills of Officer Mike Donovan, injured while on duty, was referred to the council.

The "Devil's Auction."

BUTTE, Feb. 3.—The sale of seats for "Devil's Auction" begins Saturday at Calkins'. The San Francisco Call says of the show:

"The production of the new 'Devil's Auction' at the Central Theater last night was a marked success, and was witnessed by a crowded house. Since its last appearance in this city the great spectacular has been entirely rewritten, and many new and novel features introduced. Manager Gilmore has spent time and money in anticipation of the opening, with the old-time favorites, the costumes more beautiful, the scenery more gorgeous, and the ballets and specialties exceeding anything recently seen in the specialty line."

The cast contained George H. Adams, the well-known clown; W. H. Bartholomew, Victoria Walters, Louise Dempsey, Eva Leeb, and many others, including William Rode, late of the Kalamazoo company. A great feature was the Transatlantic Ballet troupe, which appeared in a number of diversissements."

PASSED GILDED NICKELS

Another Crook That Is a Candidate for the Penitentiary.

HE WAS VERY FOND OF BEER

Gives a Saloon Keeper a Five-Cent Piece and Receives Four Dollars and Ninety-Five Cents in Change.

BUTTE, Feb. 3.—A counterfeiter was lodged in the city jail at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, caught in the act of passing his false coin. The victims of his act were Steinbrenner & Nickel, proprietors of the "Sump," a five-cent beer hall, at the northwest corner of Main and Park streets.

The counterfeiter, William M. McGuinness by name, entered the saloon about 3 o'clock this afternoon. He walked to the bar and asked Gus Nickel, one of the proprietors, for a glass of beer. He received a glass of beer and handed Mr. Nickel a gilded nickel, which looked very much like a five-dollar gold piece. It was passed in the "Sump," and Mr. Nickel did not notice anything wrong in the coin. He put it in the cash drawer and handed McGuinness $4.95 in change.

McGuinness walked out of the place and in about half an hour came back again. Mr. Nickel had copied out, and another bartender, Chris Mainz, was behind the bar.

"Give me a small glass of beer; I'm not very thirsty," said McGuinness.

Mainz gave him the beer and received another gilded nickel. The bartender picked it up and was about to put it in the drawer and give change, when his sense of touch showed him that all was not right with the coin. He examined it closely and saw that it was only a nickel with a little gilding over it.

"This is only 5 cents," said Mainz.

"Yes," said McGuinness.

So McGuinness took no change and, drinking his beer, walked over to a table and sat down. In putting the gilded nickel in the drawer, Mainz noticed the other gilded nickel which had been passed on Nickel. He sent a messenger for Gus Nickel and for the police. Mr. Nickel, Officer John Gabert and Detective Rhodes arrived at about the same time. When he saw the officers McGuinness tried to slip out, but was too late.

"This is only 5 cents," said Mainz.

"No," said McGuinness.

His pockets were searched and another gilded nickel found, making three altogether that he had had in his possession, besides others he may have been scattering about town.

McGuinness was locked up in the city jail. United States Marshal Furay now arrived and proceeded to search the counterfeiter more thoroughly than had been done. He stripped him naked, but could find no more coins. During this process McGuinness closed his teeth down on Furay's right hand and it required just one-tenth of a second for Mr. Furay to become convinced that the teeth in Mr. McGuinness' head were no counterfeit. He yelled for pain and taking the culprit by the throat made him let go.

At 4 o'clock McGuinness was taken before United States Commissioner Dingevon and pleaded not guilty to the charge of counterfeiting. The trial was set for Feb. 11.

The case is similar to the one against the two men a few months ago who also passed gilded nickels. The point was made at that time that they did not counterfeit, because they did not make the coin or change its real value; that the only charge against them would be, not cheating the United States government, but the parties on whom they passed the coin. The case was dismissed, but subsequently one of them, Sam Renshaw, was indicted by the United States grand jury and sentenced to a term of imprisonment.
